Goodwood 1010mm x 500mm
Oval Profile

Goodwood 1010 Stainless Steel Heated Towel Rail

The Goodwood 1010 stands at 1010mm high by 500mm wide with an output of 1489 BTU. The newer model, 1400, is 1400mm high by 500mm wide and has a BTU output of 1986.

The Goodwood is one of the more popular models, its striking styling with the side arm projection and oval bar profiling makes it a popular addition to the Sussex Range.

The towel rail is designed to be installed either right armed or left armed, completely changing the appearance of the rail should you favor the verticals prominently positioned at the fore or subtly positioned at the back giving you the ultimate design control.

Should you purchase the towel rail in electric only format, it will be supplied right armed as standard, however should you require left armed installation, please note this is available upon request at point of order.

All the rails within the Sussex Range are manufactured from 100% stainless steel. Stainless steel is the ethical, durable choice. Stainless steel is a manufactured from over 90% recyclable product and is 100% recyclable in itself. Furthermore, there are no harmful chemical plating processes involved in its manufacture.

Stainless steel is the durable choice; it will not rust, flake or corrode. This becomes even more important when you consider the very nature of the bathroom, wet, damp and steamy. It is a long lasting, hard wearing product, small scratches can be polished out and it is easily maintained with water and a micro-fibre cloth. It can be utilized in all systems including open. Its practicability is its first and foremost benefit.

All the rails within the Sussex Range carry a 25 year guarantee and are available from stock on a next day delivery if your order is place by noon midday.

The Goodwood 1010 retails at £498 ex VAT and the Goodwood 1400 retails at £699 ex VAT for the central heating format.

This rail is also available in satin finish, please add 30% to the price for this finish.
